I often put together mock-ups when working with designers. In the case of this campaign, there were incredible and inspiring pictures of Iceland that I really knew we could use to our advantage. The following “ads” were simply put together to illustrate the kind of images that could accompany the text.

The text options are aimed at two different goals. The first two are setting up Iceland as a “weekend getaway” alternative to Las Vegas. The third and fourth seek to engage the imagination and the “unknown” quality of Iceland, while also touching upon the ease with which one can get there.

Our girls put on quite a show.

Iceland

Your weekend getaway,
REIMAGINED

Performing twice daily.

Iceland

Your weekend getaway,

REIMAGINED

What's in a name anyway?

Iceland

A million possibilities in just one flight.

A scenic landscape of Iceland featuring a waterfall, a bridge, and a mountain at sunset. The sun is low on the horizon, casting a warm glow over the scene. The waterfall flows over dark, mossy rocks into a pool of water. A bridge is visible in the background on the left, and a steep, grassy mountain rises on the right.

You just know those Vikings were protecting something...

Iceland

One of the world's best kept secrets is one flight away.
